Joseph M. Freedman, Atty.
c/o M. Frankenstein
137 South Main St.
Memphis, Tenn.

Jan 20, 1919.
Monday.

Darling Joe: —

Received two letters this morning which accounts for the but I should have received Saturday. I certainly was happy to get them, honey, and I guess by now the mail has sort of regulated itself. To-morrow I am going to write you a real old-fashioned big letter. You remember the kind, don't you, honey? All your letters have been wonderful, precious, and you have no idea how proud and happy I am to call you hubby. I have been thinking over the shortness of my letter to you yesterday. I do hope you won't feel badly over it. I am still tired, there-sult of yesterday, and ache all over. I'll go to bed early to-night. Expect I'll stop down at the hospital. I'll write you more about it to-morrow.

In your Thursday's letter you wrote you are appearing before the Grand Jury. How did you make out, honey. I sure do wish I was down there with you. How I would like to hear my hubby try and his cases! Sure, I sure do hope too soon. Proud! Lord! that would hardly be the word. In Tuesday's letter you tell me of these big lawyers. Price, dear, I would love to have you consulted with them. If, however, you don't, why then start out for yourself. I feel positive, however, that they will do for you just what they promised — all they can. Things sure do look bright — don't they, precious? It will be long before my honey Joe will say "Mr & Mrs. So & So — meet my wife" and I will be snug and happy leaning on your arm — bowing and smiling, as happy as happy as can be. I ask every night that the time will soon come, and I am sure, dear, it will.

It will be Wednesday, at the very least, before I hear of how you made out with the lawyers. What was the trouble that the man ~~in your case~~, that you spoke about, who was put in jail? One thing I am sure of, if my hubby had him put there, he more than deserved it. Did you start the proceedings on the divorce case for the negress?

What sort of a case was it that you mention in Friday's letter as a "10 case"? Taking it all in all, things are certainly coming around wonderfully, and don't you become uneasy & upset because you are not situated. See how wonderful you are, people even come into the back of a tailoring shop to find you. It will all turn out splendidly, precious, and this week will I hope see you settled in your plans concerning your office. And then, - as I continually pray that God will answer my prayers to take care of you and bring you success and happiness.

I will close now, my love, with all my love & kiss: take good care of yourself & don't fail to see the Lazaar.

Everloving &
Your Wifey.

P.S. You have no doubt heard heard from Mom and the folks by now. Don't worry, everything is OK